Cinnamon Lake was established in 1970 by Avland Developers, a lake community developer. Ownership was eventually transferred to the Association. Cinnamon Lake Association, Inc. is a private recreational community located in the farthest northeastern corner of Ashland County. Having 1,724 lots (divided into six units), with approximately 570 homes, which are mostly permanent residences. The subdivision is a total of 883 acres, with 350 acres of common areas. The average lot size is 10,000 feet or ¼ of an acre (70' x 150')

Cinnamon Lake's watershed is the origination of the Muddy Fork Creek. Two thousand (2,000) acres of land feeds our lake and is its only water source. The lake is 135 acres with six miles of shoreline stocked with many varieties of fish. The lake depth ranges anywhere from 2 feet to approximately 29 feet. No gas-powered boats are permitted on the lake. Only 5 h.p. electric motors are permitted to be used on boats.

Operational funds are provided by the annual dues and assessments billed for each lot. They are used for the maintenance of the Association's property such as the 17 miles of roads, lake, lodge, tennis and basketball courts, beaches, pavilions, docking areas, picnic areas, common areas, campground and office. They also provide the labor costs for the administration, maintenance, gate house, recreational and general operating expenses.

A seven-person Board of Directors governs Cinnamon Lake, which are volunteer positions, elected by the membership. Several full time and part time personnel are employed to take care of the daily operations of the subdivision. By acceptance of a deed to property in Cinnamon Lake, owners must conform to the Declarations and By-Laws. Cinnamon Lake also regulates its own building requirements.

Lorain County Rural Wastewater District provides the sewer service, and Rural Lorain Water Authority provides the water service. Spectrum is our cable/internet provider and we now have natural gas available in some areas.

Cinnamon Lake is a quiet, restful, relaxing community that also offers year-round natural beauty.
